CARBON REMEMBRANCE DAY COMMUNITY SERVICE

The Community Service of Remembrance was held on Nov. 11, 1954 at the Scout Hall and the War Memorial. There was an excellent attendance of between 280 and 300.

The following groups were in the parade and fully represented: Carbon Branch Canadian Legion, Ladies Auxiliary of the Legion; Boy Scouts; I.O.D.E. and Carbon Lions.

On the platform and taking part in the prayers and scripture readings were Rev. W. H. Muller,

Mr. L. Poxon, a visitor Rev. Schumacher from Wetaskiwin, and Rev. J. G. Roberts who gave the address. Mr. Poxon represented Rev. Smetheram who had other duties at Rockyford. The organ music was played by Mr. H. Isaac.

A new feature was the first community appearance of the Carbon Junior Choir, a young group of singers led by Miss Marilyn Martin who played the piano for them. They gave a really creditable rendition of "We Will Be Loyal to Our King" in the course of which little solo parts were sung by Larry Ohlhauser, Kerry, Delores and Sylvia Schell, and Marilyn and Gwen Neher. Mrs. Mueller who trains them was still convalescing in Calgary and was unable to be present. All present thoroughly enjoyed the innovation and more will undoubtedly be heard of this young group.

At the close of the service at the Scout Hall, the groups paraded to the Cenotaph in the Park where, in a brief but moving ceremony, wreaths were laid by the Legion, Auxiliary, I.O.D.E. and Lions. Miss Frances Kaughman laid a family wreath. The parade was effectively marshalled by Mr. J. Woods of the Canadian Legion.

In an item which appeared in this paper two weeks ago regarding a farewell for Arnold Martin Mr. and Mrs. Norman Ohlhauser were present.

McARTHUR—McLEAN

Miss Marjorie McLean, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Wendell McLean of Calgary was united in marriage with Mr. Alex McArthur, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. A. J. McArthur of Calgary at a quiet ceremony solemnized recently by Rev. G. A. Peddle at St. Paul's United Church, Banff.

The bride's sister, Mrs. G. C. Wright of Vancouver was matron of honor, and Mr. Wright was best man.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the Sun Room of the Cascade Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. McArthur left later for a short honeymoon to the Pacific coast and points in the U.S.A.

They will later reside in Carbon where the groom operates the Ghost Pine mine.

The L.A. to Canadian Legion 161 held a successful whist drive on Friday, Nov. 5th. The winners were:

Ladies' First, Mrs. D. Gimbel, cup and saucer.

Ladies' Second, Mrs. E. Wiffen, Ash Trays.

Gents First, Dick Gimbel, Flashlight.

Gents Second, E. Wiffen, tape.

Christmas postal service

All parcels intended for delivery to servicemen in the United Kingdom and continental Europe by Christmas must be overseas by Dec. 12, according to army postal authorities.

In a newsletter from army postal headquarters it was stated that prepaid airmail letters must be posted in time to reach Montreal not later than Dec. 16. Ordinary letters and packages sent parcel post must reach Montreal no later than Nov. 27.

Authorities said although airmail and air parcels despatched to Europe from Montreal are delivered in two or three days, they cannot guarantee such service during the Christmas season.

In addition to parcels having to be overseas by Dec. 12 for Christmas delivery, letters must arrive by Dec. 19.

For troops serving in the Far East, parcel post and letters must be mailed in time to reach Vancouver not later than Nov. 15, although prepaid airmail must be posted to reach Vancouver not later than Dec. 7.

Weight limit on parcels to Europe and the Far East is 10 pounds. Size and value regulations should be checked at local post offices.

Authorities said all mail should be properly addressed and fully be properly addressed and fully overseas delivery. Custom declaration forms must be completed and attached to all parcels shipped.

Correct military addresses for Canadian armed forces personnel serving overseas are: United Kingdom—Number, rank, name, unit, CAPO 5051, care of Postmaster, Montreal; France (Metz area) CAPO 5052, France (Paris area) CAPO 5053; Germany and Belgium, CAPO 5050.

To the Postmaster, Vancouver, goes mail for the Far East (Korea) CAPO 5000, Far East (Tokyo area) CAPO 5001 and Far East (Kure area) CAPO 5003.

1955 Dominion Drama Festival at Regina in May

REGINA. — The 1955 Dominion Drama Festival will be in Regina, it was announced.

H. R. Dredger, chairman of the festival general executive committee, said a new rule would see late-comers barred from attendance after the curtain goes up. "This is only fair to the competing teams and the adjudicator," he said.

Festival dates are May 9-14.

These days most people work under pressure, worry more, sleep less. This strain on body and brain makes physical fitness easier to lose—harder to regain. Today's tense living, lowered resistance, overwork, worry—any of these may affect normal kidney action. When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and wastes remain in the system. Then backache, disturbed rest, that "tired-out" heavy-headed feeling often follow. That's the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's stimulate the kidneys to normal action. ANTI-FREEZE

Without the complete protection of "Prestone" Brand Anti-Freeze, you may suffer the expense of serious cooling system damage this winter or even next summer after the anti-freeze has been drained and replaced with water and rust inhibitor.

Remember—a 'substitute' anti-freeze just might get you through the winter without cooling system freeze-up. But freeze-up is less than half the hazard of winter engine operation. Many cases of summer engine overheating problems are caused by inferior anti-freeze protection during the previous winter. "Prestone" Anti-Freeze protects the cooling system against freeze-up, rust, corrosion, acid contamination, clogging, seepage, deterioration of metal and rubber parts. That's complete protection!

It always pays to insist on "Prestone" Anti-Freeze. Don't accept 'substitutes'—not if you're looking for guaranteed, complete protection, the kind that only "Prestone" Anti-Freeze can give.

Punishment to fit the crime? it depends on where and when

An old drawing of the storming of the Bastille. It was here a prisoner spent 69 years for laughing at a king's bald noggin.

By JERRY KLEIN
(CPC Correspondent)

Crime and punishment are strange companions. For, despite the musical appeal by Gilbert and Sullivan, it's very seldom that the punishment really does fit the crime.

For example, a municipal trash collector in Hong Kong was haled into court for taking a bribe. He got nine weeks in jail for accepting a bribe of one cent.

In India a British soldier once refused to accept his daily ration of rum. He was shot on conviction of mutiny.

A new York millionaire spanked his girl friend. The state supreme court ordered him to pay the girl $25,000 damages.

A Maryland girl was taking a bath when a telephone repairman strolled in. The girl claimed she'd been terribly frightened and she sued for $10,000, but the state appeals court decided $600 was sufficient.

Another case of fright was that reported by the Washington man who said that almost being run over by a car scared him so badly that he's now afraid of all automobiles. This frightened citizen was awarded $250.

In France a nine-year-old boy once made fun of the fact that King Louis XIV was bald. The king threw the boy into solitary confinement in the Bastille, where he remained for the next 69 years. He finally was released as a forgotten, broken-down old man.

Incidentally, the provost of Paris who built the Bastille was one of the first to be imprisoned in it. In the same vein, the carpenter who built the stocks for the Puritan fathers of Boston was accused of trying to overcharge for the job, and became the stocks' first prisoner. And the Cardinal La Balue, who invented the iron cage for torturing prisoners, later spent 10 years in his own invention.

In Georgia a bus passenger won $25,000 damages—even though she wasn't involved in any accident. She claimed that the bus driver was drunk and told the court that it can be just as upsetting to suffer a thousand imagined accidents as one real one!

TRY AND STOP ME!

By BENNETT CERF

Just graduated with high honors from Harvard, a young know-it-all, sought a job in one of Boston's swankiest banking establishments. Awaiting one of the vice-presidents, he idly struck up a conversation with a freckle-faced office boy in short pants. "Tell me, Buster," he inquired loftily, "do you think there's an opening in this musty institution for a sharp young college graduate?" "There certainly will be," Buster assured him, "unless they raise me to twenty bucks a week by this coming Friday."

"Plastic surgeons and slick beauticians can shave about 25 years off a woman's age," sighs Elsa Maxwell, noted Hollywood celebrity, "but you can't fool a steep flight of stairs."

"I'm very depressed this evening," said Mrs. Paley to her friend, Mr. Baskerville. "We had to shoot our dog this morning." "Too bad," murmured Baskerville. "Was he mad?" "Well," conceded Mrs. Paley, "he wasn't exactly pleased."

An auto accident in New York deprived a housewife of her sense of smell. For the "inconvenience of not being able to smell any of the food she cooks," the woman was given $4,564.

Prince Charles will go into combat this fall . . . boxing

LONDON.—Prince Charles, heir to the British throne will learn boxing this fall by sparring with a "husky" American boy. Charles, who will be six on November 14, is scheduled to put on the boxing gloves with six-year-old Stephen Rutter, of Pine Forge, Pa.

Stephen is the son of Peter Rutter, second secretary at the U.S. embassy in London.

He is described by his father as "pretty tough."

Stephen still doesn't know he might end up bopping the future King of England on the beak," Rutter said.

This situation came about because Stephen and some other school boys were being trained by boxing Coach Percy Sage when Buckingham Palace is reported to have asked him to teach Prince Charles the manly art.

While official sources declined to comment, it has been known that Charles' sports-loving father, the Duke of Edinburgh, has wanted his son to learn some of the rough and tumble of athletics. Apparently, Queen Elizabeth II was won over.

Rutter confirms

However, Rutter confirmed that Palace officials sounded him and his wife out about letting their boy help Prince Charles learn to box.

If the plan goes through, the little Prince will spar with Stephen and Giles Stimson, an English boy already turned six. The two

OCTOBER EVENING

Swiftly the light fades from the sunset glow;
The withered leaves on the maple trees turn black,
And the old grey barn blacker still.
Quickly the day rushes to its early close;
The dry grass blends with the garden hedge
And the cool sky with the hill.

Rising, the wind brings a hint of autumn frost;
A warning of many long cold days to come,
While the earth prepares for rest.
Brightly the stars appear one by one;
The moon shows its crescent rim
As the last glimmer fades from the west.

An amorous bus driver of Wisconsin stole a kiss from one of his passengers. He was fined $1,000.

One of the wierdest punishments was meted out in 1550 by Queen Elizabeth to John Copleston, who had killed his godson. In retribution Copleston had to plant an oak tree, which stood for many years at Tamerton Follet, in England.

Oswald Kroel of Lindau, Germany, was executed for murder, but later it was proven that he was innocent. His skeleton was brought into court and for many years it stood as a grim reminder in front of the judge who had pronounced the unjust sentence of death.

In Africa, Uganda King Mwangi was determined to keep out civilized ideas. He executed 4,000 subjects whose only crime was "thinking" about the Bible.

Rulers of the Ekoi tribe of Africa have softer hearts. An Ekoi criminal condemned to die is handed a palaver stick whose pegs pronounce the verdict in wooden script. He can escape death and reduce his sentence to just 10 years' imprisonment by merely breaking off one of the wooden pegs.

Canadian statistics report

(A Weekly Review)

Construction—With greater activity reported in most provinces this year, the value of construction in Canada is expected to top the 1953 peak by 5 percent. The shift from engineering to building construction is continuing, and institutional building—mainly hospitals and schools—is expected to show the largest increase. Average employment in the industry is expected to exceed half a million this year for the first time.

Prices—Consumer prices averaged 0.2 percent lower at the start of September than at the beginning of August. Declines in food prices outweighed advances in rents and homeownership costs. Household operation costs were unchanged, while prices of clothing and other commodities and services were down slightly. Wholesale prices dipped 0.7 percent during August, but registered no net change in September. Farm operating and living costs were slightly higher in August than in April, but moderately lower than in August last year.

Banking—With a 10.5 percent increase in August, the value of cheques cashed in the first eight months was more than 6 percent higher than in 1953.

Food—Nine-city stocks of creamery butter, cheddar cheese and cold storage eggs were higher on October 1 than on the same date last year. Three percent more fluid milk, 2 percent more fluid cream was sold this July. More cherries but less peas were packed by food processors this year than in 1953. Twenty-seven percent more wheat flour was milled this August. The August sea-fish catch was over 10 percent larger, nearly 21 percent more valuable this year.

Transport—The decline in railway car loadings from last year's level continued in the week ending September 21 with a drop of nearly 8 percent. Over 14 percent less freight moved through Canadian canals this August. Oil-pipe line deliveries rose 8 percent in July, 20 percent in the first 7 months this year.

Labour—There were about 1 percent more claimants on the live unemployment insurance register at the end of August than at the close of July. Industrial employment, payrolls and average weekly earnings were slightly higher at the start of August than a month earlier.

Manufacturing—More asphalt shingles and floor tiles, rigid insulating board and hard board was produced in August than in the same month last year. July output of Portland cement was higher this year, but there were decreases in coke, paints and leather.

Brier playdown in Regina will coincide with jubilee

Preparations for Canada's top curling event—the MacDonald Brier—to be held in Regina March 7-11, 1955, were started recently when members of all Regina clubs met with representatives of the sponsors of the championship event at Hotel Saskatchewan.

Staging of the premier curling event in Regina next March, in which the top curling rinks representing Canada's 10 provinces will vie for the world championship curling title and the Brier Tankard, coincides with Saskatchewan's jubilee year, and will mark the first time held in Regina.

Arthur Condie and Reg Geary of Montreal, Frank O'Brien of Toronto, Bert Cameron of Winnipeg and Charlie Bryan of Regina held a two-hour session with the local committee, under the chairmanship of Earl Bourne, and complete plans for curling's greatest show were outlined.

It is the aim of the committee to make the championship the best ever held and in this, the greatest curling province of them all, the members feel sure they can accomplish the task they are setting out to do.

The bonspiel will be held in the Stadium and plans call for a decorating job that will be second to none in the history of the event which dates back to 1927. A Saskatchewan rink has never won the title. In the last year's spiel at Edmonton, Garnet Campbell and his brothers from Avonlea were second to Matt Baldwin's Edmonton rink when a new record for attendance was set. The committee fully expects that a new record will be established in this curling hot-bed.

Veteran rink invited

Mr. Condie read detailed plans for the whole event, outlining the work of each sub-committee which has already been set up in Regina. In addition he suggested that the rink skipped by Ossie Barkwell of Yellow Grass, which took part in the 1927 event, be invited to attend the bonspiel as special guests.

Mr. Geary outlined the history of the Brier event and the part it has played in national unity. "It is the only truly national event we have in Canadian sports," he said. He also stated that instructional films would be made at the Regina 'spiel, something new in curling which he hoped would be of use throughout the country to promote the game where it may be lagging.

A film, showing the highlights of the championship event at Edmonton last year, was screened at the end of the meeting. The film was excellent and gave the viewers an idea of the high quality of curling that prevailed throughout that bonspiel.

The big thing about the national bonspiel, Mr. Geary said, was the remarkable influence it had on such places as Newfoundland and the Maritime provinces where the game had improved by leaps and bounds in the last 10 years.

Jubilee feature

The bonspiel will be a big feature in Regina's jubilee celebrations. It has never been held in the city before. Saskatoon was host to the champion rinks a year or so after the Second World War.

Cece Boyd of Regina, president of the Canadian Curling association, and Jimmy Armstrong, a past president, both attended the meeting.

Mr. Condie will return late in February, 1955, to meet with the sub-committees again. In the meantime, it will be full steam ahead for all of them in their efforts to make the bonspiel the most successful one of all.

Churchill grain exports, record

CHURCHILL, Man.—Grain exported from this Northern Manitoba port this season set a record with 12,500,000 bushels. The United Kingdom was the chief buyer.

Employees of the aHrbors Board, elevator employees and stevedores worked 18-hours-a-day during the last two weeks to help set the record.

The Pindar, last ship of the season, sailed Oct. 7.

Athletes and the common cold

Every season practically every football and hockey player gets a number of colds. These colds are usually bad enough to make the player miss more practices and games than he wants to miss. Then, too, even though he has a very light cold and is able to play, his efficiency is very low because his wind and condition have been weakened. Still another point is that it is usually a week or two before a player gets back into top form after having had a cold. Yes, the common cold causes the athlete a lot of grief and the loss of many important games.

And now, here are the things to remember well and practice faithfully, if you are to handle this problem properly. To help you avoid colds observe these rules carefully:

1. Make sure you get lots of sleep. This is all-important because the common cold never loses a chance to lay you low, if you are tired and a little run down from lack of enough sleep.

2. Watch your diet carefully and eat enough of the foods that build up your resistance. You can make sure of this by following the rules listed in our bulletin, "Athletic Diet Fundamentals" so be sure you get a copy.

3. Avoid getting chilled by standing around on street corners, especially after a practice or game. When your body gets chilled, especially your feet, your powers of resistance drop very quickly leaving you wide open for a knockout punch by one of the many high-powered cold germs. So, be sure to wear an extra sweater or coat after a practice or game and above all, keep those feet warm.

4. Avoid sudden changes of temperature, such as those you feel when you go outside from a warm house without putting on extra clothing. Don't go out in the back yard without putting on a sweater or coat or don't go out on the front porch for a brief chat with a pal who has just dropped by for a moment. It may seem like a lot of bother to put something on but it will be a lot less bother than gargling and sneezing for a few days in the house while your team is practicing or playing a game.

5. Stay away from people who have colds. If it is not possible to avoid them at least keep from getting close and get extra sleep following all the rules listed here carefully. This will keep your resistance high so you can throw off any germ you might pick up.

6. Be extra careful when you are very tired. For example; after a tough game or practice. At this time your resistance is low and you and your pals will be busy talking about the plays that took place and such things as "who was to blame for that last goal."

7. If you are knocked off by a cold remember these facts. Your cold will clear up sooner and bother you less if, the moment you figure you have a cold, you get extra rest and keep warm, drink plenty of fruit juices—especially citrus juices—and avoid any chilling or tiring activities. Spend a day or two resting, in bed if possible, when you first get the cold and you will save perhaps a week or two of unpleasant complications later on.

Treat all colds immediately—right from the start—before it really gets organized. If your cold is a heavy one, don't fool around with it. See a good doctor.

If you have had a very heavy cold or a touch of flu, don't take part in a tough, hard game or practice until you are completely well and have had some easy reconditioning work. A heavy cold or the flu throws a great strain on your body and if you play hard before you are in condition you may do yourself serious harm. Be smart and get back into shape slowly and safely. By doing this you can make sure you will not cut short what will most likely be a long, happy and successful career in sport.

GRAIN STORAGE

EDMONTON.—Improper grain storage accounts for an estimated loss of seven cents a bushel to farmers every year, says William Lobay, supervisor of crop protection for the Alberta agriculture department.

There are nearly one thousand weekly newspapers in Canada with a combined circulation of about 4,000,000.

Record season of shipping along the Mackenzie river

EDMONTON. — The last boats on the Mackenzie river waterway system in the Northwest Territories have migrated south after a record summer's business. Shipping has already been made hazardous by Arctic storms which have recently claimed a boat and a barge, without loss of life, on Great Slave lake, 450 miles north of Edmonton.

L.A.C. O. Hunt, N.W.T. administrator, told of the mishaps while here en route to a vacation in England. The vessels went down with 100 tons of mixed supplies leaving many Yellowknife town merchants short of goods.

Another near-tragedy occurred off Banks island, 340 miles inside the Arctic circle, where a Hudson's Bay Co. ship was blown near shore and began to freeze in. Two Eskimo boats towed her free.

In the wake of winter, air transportation services have also been curtailed.

Isolated now

Lakeside communities without landing strips now are isolated. Pontoon-equipped planes which serviced them during the summer months have to wait four to six months before the waters are frozen for ski-landings.

Float-equipped planes which operate out of the Yellowknife scheduled their last trip October 2 and Saskatchewan government airways officials announced there would be no guarantee of flying operations by float planes into many northern communities after October 15.

A few boats are still making unscheduled trips along the southern portion of the Mackenzie river waterway system carrying fruit and other perishable goods on their final runs.

Shortage of apples

Mr. Hunt said there will be a shortage of apples in many northern communities this year because the crop was retarded until it was too late for freighting.

However, a 10 percent increase over last year has made the summer of 1954 a record northland freighting season with 90,000 tons of goods and equipment transported by cargo boats.

Extra-heavy rainfall this summer enabled ships to carry brimming loads without going around, cutting down on the number of necessary trips and setting a near-record early closing date for the season which started to open in May and began to close in September.

Clean plastic or imitation leather by sudsing with lukewarm water and mild soap. Then apply petroleum jelly, to prevent cracking.

Before arranging cut flowers, allow them to stand for a couple of hours in hot water (bathtub temperature) with a piece of paper wrapped around the blossoms. The paper prevents rapid air movement away from the flowers and reduces loss of water. Hot water moves easier and faster in the stems than does cold.

On The Side

By E. V. Durling

Remember when glass jars full of peas were displayed in shop windows with an invitation to customers to guess how many peas were in the jar? Would you say such guessing was a game of chance or of skill? A judge recently ruled it a game of chance. I think the judge was wrong. Such guessing is based on skill, you judge the size of the jar, the size of a pea and then make an estimate. A mathematician, owing to his skill in figuring, would have a better chance than a person just guessing at random.

Ducal tourist attraction

The chieftain of the Campbell clan, immortalized in the stirring march song "The Campbells Are Coming", is the Duke of Argyll. The Duke is in the pink physically, but financially not so strong. He has opened his ancestral castle for inspection by tourists on payment of an admission price. Souvenirs are also sold. Thirty thousand tourists paid admission this year to look over the Duke of Argyll's "stately home", Inveraray castle.

And something for luck

The traditional suggestion for brides is to wear "something old, something new, something borrowed, something blue." Did your bride follow this suggestion? I know for the "something blue" most brides wear a blue garter. But what is the favorite item to cover the "something borrowed" angle? Also, do brides wear anything particular for "luck?"

Timing osculation

A film kiss is limited to 16 seconds. The average screen kiss lasts five seconds. How long does the "goodbye" kiss you give your wife in the morning last? What is the length of the kiss she gives you when you arrive home? If you don't know, you better clock this osculation. According to experts, the morning kiss should last 10 seconds. The evening kiss, 15 seconds. Both to be accompanied by a vigorous hug.

Emphasize the good

Few women have shapely toes. Yet many not so blessed by nature insist upon wearing shoes exposing the toes. Why? Is it not common sense for a woman to conceal her bad points and emphasize her good points? However, as has been said, "common sense is not so common."

Just like a man

A man carrying one parcel is eight times more likely to drop it than is a woman. That was revealed in a recent check on human behavior. Keep this in mind, lady. The next time your husband drops a parcel you can say, "just like a man." I wonder if men carried handbags whether they would misplace them as much as women do? No chance to check on that. But how about the fellows who carry briefcases? Do they misplace or leave them behind frequently?

CNR orders new diesels

The placing of orders for new diesel motive power, by the Canadian National Railways, marks another step in the railway's modernization plan to step up efficiency and strengthen its competitive position. Deliveries are to start as soon as possible and be completed next May.

Of interest is the fact that the new purchases include 19 "A" and "B" type passenger road diesels of 1750 H.P. and 1600 H.P. These have been ordered from Canadian companies for main line passenger trains in Canada.

The new order, totalling 127 units, is part of the C.N.R.'s five year dieselization program on which the company embarked in 1951 following extensive studies of the economies and advantages to be obtained by the use of this type of power. Since then the railway has purchased more than 300 diesels for use in through freight services, yard operations and on short passenger runs.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

Psychology for Mollie

—By ANNA E. WILSON

JEB HAINES had always held that there was no reason for a man to stop learning just because he was getting old. Jeb was middle-aged, thin and a trifle bald. Right now, he was thinking of his daughter, Mollie, who was going round with young Jack Davis and had taken to dreaming and looking starry-eyed.

Not that Mollie wasn't a sensible girl as well as being pretty or that he had anything against Jack, who was taking engineering in the same college in which Mollie was studying for her art's degree, but there was Jack's father, Caleb Davis, who worked down at the bottling works.

Both Jeb and Caleb belonged to the Volunteer Fireman's Brigade that supplemented the regular fire department and helped out nights. The equipment had been supplied by the bottling works where Cal worked, and the men met every Thursday to practice life-saving and fire-extinguishing and to play a game of checkers or cards and drink a few cokes in the room over the station afterwards.

Cal wasn't popular with the other men. He was loud, red-faced. His booming voice carried all over the station and it was loud in the praise of Cal. "And I said to the president, 'It's not that I'm not satisfied with the accounting department but the money isn't what a man who's taken a full course in accounting down at the James Business School has a right to expect.'"

Jeb always played a game of checkers with Cal while the other men played cards. Cal always won. He played, Jeb thought, like a man trying to prop up his opinion of himself by lording it over his opponent. It wasn't that Cal expected you to believe him. Everybody knew that Cal was nothing but a bottle jerker in the plant, and no one had ever seen the president of the works for years, or the owner either, for that matter. It just seemed that Cal was a natural show-off and thinking of him, as he surreptitiously removed a book from Mollie's stack on the library table, Jeb frowned.

Jeb regarded Mollie's weighty tomes with awe. He, himself, had had little education, having had to leave school in the fifth grade and go to work to help out at home. He'd married Mollie's mother young and their first years had been hard years, busy years; but he'd promised Mollie's mother to do his best for Mollie and had entered her in the college as soon as she came out of high school.

Jeb leafed through the books rapidly. Psychology. He wouldn't know much about that, and, after reading a few pages, Jeb gave an indignant snort. Seemed this man was of the opinion that the way people talked about themselves had little to do with their real feelings. When they were loud and boastful, it was just because they were unsure of themselves. Jeb thought of Cal Davis and chuckled, then he very thoughtfully put Mollie's book aside.

Jeb didn't play checkers with Cal on Thursday night because he was called away to his sister Ellie's oldest girl's wedding and stayed to help out with the farm work for the next six weeks. When he came into the fire station, Cal wasn't there, but after practice was over and "he had seated himself at his favorite table for a game of checkers, Cal came hurrying in." Jeb stared. Cal was wearing a new suit with a clean white shirt. He spoke quietly, too, and his eyes were steady and honest and a little humble as he laid out his men. Cal won the first game without much trouble. Jeb remarked mildly, "It do seem, Cal, as you'd sort of changed your ways. Things going all right down at the bottling works? Looks like you're dressed pretty fancy for a bottle-man."

Cal's face lit up. "I'm not a bottle-man anymore. Six weeks ago, Mr. Appleton, the head of the accounting department, came into the factory. Called my name out in front of everybody. Said he was going to try me out on the books. Says I'm doing well, too, and will soon be assistant to the chief."

Jeb took a long drink from his coke. "Not many men over fifty has that much ambition, Cal. Must be, you had a pretty strong motive for wanting to go on accounts." Cal's face reddened like a school boy's. "Well, it was this way, Jeb. My boy, Jack, is working his way through for engineering and it did seem hard on the boy to have a father working in the bottling plant. Not that Jack ever complained. Jack says a man that's worked steady all his life and brought home his pay, shovelling snow for the city when the plant shut down and not letting his pride stand in the way of his family's health when he had to get a little help from the city in the depression, Jack says that's being a stable character and a good citizen and one the country should be proud of. But it wasn't just Jack. Cousin Fanny's boy, Fred, takes the same course Jack does and he says Jack's been going around with a college girl. Women set quite a store by jobs with fancy clothes and maybe it would go against Jack's chances with the girl having a father working at the bottling, so I took this course over at the school and Mr. James said I had real aptitude for it, and now," Cal smiled humbly into his coke, "I'm right in line to be assistant."

Jeb set up another game. "I got a girl in college myself, Cal. They're a pretty wise lot, these young ones. I didn't have many advantages myself but I like to look over Mollie's college books once in a while. Now this psychology, it's sort of interesting." Cal smiled guiltily and leaned over to speak in a voice hardly above a whisper, "It's History that gets me, Jeb. I like to take a peek at it when Jack isn't around."

Jeb opened the door into the library stealthily and found himself alone. He dropped into a comfortable chair before the fire and removed his shoes. Mollie's books were still on the table and he settled himself comfortably with the History of Civilization, then decided to think of Mollie instead.

Funny, he didn't worry about Mollie anymore. A man who's father could learn accounting when he was over fifty and succeed at it too—well, Mollie was doing all right for herself.

Deep in the History of Civilization, he chuckled. Maybe these youngsters knew a lot of fancy things that he and Cal didn't know but he could never have found out what a fine character Cal really was—if he hadn't owned the Bottling Works.

Coconut Fudge Chiffon Cake

Sift into a bowl, 1 c. plus 2 tbs. once-sifted cake flour, 1 1/2 tps. Magic Baking Powder, 1/2 tsp. salt, 3/4 c. fine granulated sugar; mix in 1/2 c. desiccated coconut. Make a well in dry ingredients and add in order given (do not stir mixture), 1/4 c. corn (salad) oil, 2 unbeaten egg yolks, 1/4 c. plus 2 tbs. water, 1 tsp. vanilla, 2 1/2 ozs. unsweetened chocolate, melted and cooled. Stir liquids a bit, then stir in dry ingredients; beat until batter is smooth. Measure into a large bowl 1/2 c. egg whites (at room temperature) and sprinkle with 1/4 tsp. cream of tartar; beat until whites are very stiff—much stiffer than for meringues, etc. Add flour mixture, about a quarter at a time, and fold after each addition until batter and egg whites are well combined. Turn batter into an ungreased 8" angel cake pan; bake in rather slow oven, 325°, about 1 hour. Immediately cake comes from oven, invert pan and suspend cake until cold.

The Southern Alberta Dorcas Federation met at the S.D.A. Church in Calgary Nov. 7 at 10 a. m. and was opened by the president Mrs. E. C. Gramms. Six of the nine Dorcas Societies were well well represented, the attendance being the best since the incorporation of the Federation. The morning meeting was devoted to reports from all societies. Many hundreds of dollars worth of clothing and food have been distributed amongst the needy and some shipped overseas. Many were cheered by the flowers and fruit baskets also given away.

Mrs. Sam Leiske and Mrs. Marvin Dick added to the enjoyment of the meeting by rendering a beautiful duet accompanied by Larry Leiske. The lunch hour was enjoyed by all and we then reconvened for our afternoon session. Lori Suelzle of Calgary favored us with two violin selections all appreciated. Our guest speaker Lt. Col. Bell of Calgary spoke on Civil Defense. His theme was Preparedness For Disaster whether by war, flood or fire. He outlined civil defense work and that we could serve best by doing medical and welfare work. Classes in these divisions are starting in Calgary and should be well attended. In this time of peace we should prepare for what may come, for when disaster strikes it will be too late then to get ready. We must be ready. It is our duty to do this now so that we may be the means of saving some lives later on.

Mrs. Sam Leiske of Beiseker and Mrs. Anna Weizel of Bentley gave a selection "Love Divine" to bring our meeting to a fitting conclusion.

TELEVISION ANTENNAS

The installation of television antenna supporting structures adjacent to overhead power lines constitutes a serious accident and fire hazard. If the structure contacts the power line either when it is being erected or later under storm conditions, the full voltage of the power line will be impressed on the structure and antenna. Fatal accidents and fires have been caused by such contacts.

Persons erecting television antennas should wherever possible maintain sufficient clearances from the power lines to ensure that no contact will be made if the antenna structure falls. It is recommended that the distance from the power line be six feet greater than the total height of the structure. Where such clearances cannot be obtained the structure must be securely guyed away from the power line. The company owning the power line should be notified when the installation is being made so they may have a representative present to temporarily disconnect the line, if necessary.

Details of safe construction standards for Domestic antennas exceeding fifteen feet in height have been compiled by the Canadian Standards Association under Specification C22.4 No. 112. These specifications are available from the Canadian Standards Association, National Research Building, Ottawa, at a cost of 75c per copy.

The minimum requirements for the installation of television antennas and lead in cables, together with the protective grounding required are contained in Section 54 of the Canadian Electrical Code, Part 1, Sixth Edition, which has been adopted under the Electrical Protection Act of Alberta.
